OUTING OF THE EDITORS

Kentucky Press Association In Session at Grayson Springs This Week.

BANQUET TUESDAY EVE.

Members Take Action Favorable to Passage of the Libel Bill.

Grayson Springs, July 25.—The annual meeting of the Kentucky Press Association was called to order in the big ball room of the hotel and the roll was called by Secretary W. Vernon Richardson. Col Noel Gaines, of Frankfort, offered prayer and the address of welcome was delivered by M. E. Arnold, of the Leitchfield Gazette. It was responded to by Mayor Clarence E. Woods, of Richmond. In concluding Mr. Woods paid a beautiful tribute to the late Richard W. Miller, of Richmond. President E. A. Gullion then read his annual report.

Jouet Shouse, of the Lexington Herald, spoke on "Features" and asked the support of the Kentucky editors for the Lexington fair.

Mr. Shouse was followed by the Hon. Reed Embury, of Danville, on "The Newspaper Man in Politics." His reference to William Jennings Bryan called forth a storm of cheers. He also paid tributes to Henry Waterson, Col. W. B. Haldeman, the late Richard W. Miller and the late Col. W. C. P. Breckinridge.

President Gullion recommended that hereafter the members of the association should secure pledges from candidates for the general assembly to support measures indorsed by the association; that the constitution be revised; that the state fair and state development convention be supported. He favored the forming of District Publishers' Leagues in the state and recommended that membership in the one be conditional upon membership in the other. He also recommended that the editors make the trip to the Jamestown Exposition and that if any steps were taken toward a state display there the Kentucky press lend hearty endorsement.

The most important matter given attention at the business meeting was the libel bill, which was defeated at the last session of the legislature. At the suggestion of Col. W. B. Haldeman, editor of the Louisville Times, a committee of five was appointed to draw up resolutions to the effect that the members of the association would only support candidates for office favorable to the interests of the newspapers.

A banquet was held last night at which the following toasts were responded to:

"The Salt of the Earth," J. J. Glenn, Glenn's Graphic.

"A Pretty Face," W. B. Brewer, Fairview Review.

"Our Neighbor," Heber Matthews, Hartford Herald.

"What of the Outlook," T. C. Underwood, Hopkinsville New Era.

"Random Shots," Tim Needham, Williamstown Courier.

"The Never Ending End," Chas. M. Meacham, Hopkinsville Kentuckian.

Col. Haldeman made an address in which he spoke in complimentary terms of the association and urged it to continue with its good work. His address was warmly received.

The election of officers will be held tomorrow and it is thought the following will be elected:

President—David Wallace, Warsaw Independent.

Vice President—Lew W. Brown, Harrodsburg Democrat.

Secretary and Treasurer—Vernon Richardson, Danville News.

The association will remain in session here until Friday, when the members will go to Bowling Green, where they will be the guests of that city Friday evening and Saturday.

A QUARTET OF YOUNG PEOPLE

Had a Narrow Escape From Death Last Saturday Night.

IN 15 FEET OF WATER.

Fought Swift Current in Blackest Darkness and Gained Shore.

Lewis, Thomas and Miss Sady, children of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Smith, and Miss Ada Blakeley, while on their way from a picnic last Saturday night came near meeting watery graves.

Mr. Smith lives in Trigg county, near Gracey, and his three children, the oldest of which is about 17 years of age, had obtained their parents' consent to attend a moonlight picnic on the Charles Jarrett farm and were accompanied by Miss Ada Blakeley. They went in buggies and when they reached the W. R. Howell farm they undertook to cross a stream known as "Dry Creek." They were perfectly familiar with the fording place, but the night was intensely dark and they missed the ford and struck the stream where it was narrow and before they knew it were in 15 feet of water. Of course they could not turn around and the current was so swift that both buggies were carried down stream some distance. Louis Smith was the only one that could swim. On reaching the shore he grabbed a grape vine that his hand happened to touch, and before he was out of the water he felt the body of his sister, which had already gone under and was being carried down stream by the strong current, strike him, when he grabbed her and pulled her head above water. Strange as it may seem he made her take hold of the grape vine when he climbed the bank and saved her life. He then went to the rescue of Miss Blakeley who was still standing in the buggy in water almost up to her waist. He got her ashore all right and found that his brother had also succeeded in making the shore.

The next matter to be attended to was the rescue of the two horses, which had gotten across the stream with the buggies. Young Smith went to the nearest house, about a mile away for lanterns. On the way he met a colored man who went to the scene at once and was soon followed by Smith with a couple of lanterns and two other men. The horses, with the greatest difficulty, were forced up the steep banks and after a brief rest and quieting the frightened animals the young pleasure seekers turned their faces homeward. It is useless to say that the young people were deeply thankful for their almost miraculous escape and have learned a lesson in early life that will never be forgotten. They will be more certain of their crossings hereafter and their parents' consent for night drives to picnics in future will not so easily be obtained. Young Smith has lots of nerve and presence of mind, and but for him some of the party would certainly have been drowned. He's a hero, but doesn't really know it.

COL. HUMPHRIES,

Formerly of Trigg, Dies Near McGowan Station.

Mr. John Calhoun Humphries, father of Lock Humphries, of Caledonia, and Mrs. Joe Barbour, of Pee Dee, died a few days ago at his home near McGowan Station. He was 65 years old and had been ill for a long time. Mr. Humphries was a native of Trigg county, having been born on Sinking Fork, not far from Montgomery. He moved to Caldwell about sixteen years ago. He was a Confederate veteran.

LOCAL LEAFLETS.

How lonesome everything looks about the Y. M. C. A. building. Almost as much so as about the courthouse.

A new concrete pavement is being put down about J. O. Cook's drug store. The real concrete pavement beats all others.

Some one seeing the two large white electric light globes on the front of the new Bank of Hopkinsville wanted to know if the bank would be kept open all night. There is a bank in New York that never closes except on Sunday.

The prospects for a fine corn crop were never better. Tobacco is looking well, the wheat crop is all that could be desired, and if Christian county farmers are not happy at the end of the year they never will be.

The delivery of wheat at the local mills, which was somewhat interfered with by the rains of last week, has been resumed, and the usual string of wagons waiting to be unloaded can be seen at each mill.

The work of laying brick on the American Snuff Co.'s building is going on rapidly, and will be pushed to completion as soon as possible.

The State College of Kentucky,

LEXINGTON, KY.

The Agricultural and Mechanical (State College) of Kentucky offers the following courses of study, viz: Agricultural, Horticultural, Chemical, Biological, Mathematical, Physical, Normal School, Classical, Mechanical Engineering, Electrical Engineering, Civil Engineering, and Mining Engineering, each of which extends over four years and leads to a degree. Post graduate studies are also provided, leading to a master's degree. Each course of study is organized under a separate faculty. The general faculty number nearly fifty professors and instructors.

County appointees receive free tuition, room rent in the dormitories, fuel and light, and if they remain ten months, traveling expenses. The laboratories and museums are large, well equipped, comprehensive and modern.

Graduates from the several courses of study readily find excellent positions and liberal remuneration. The demand is largely in excess of the ability of the College to supply. The matriculation for the 1st year was, including Summer school, 815.

Specialists with the necessary number of assistants have charge of each department of natural science. Summer schools are provided to pedagogy, engineering, instruction in science and in arts.

The State College of Kentucky, though bearing hitherto the title of "college," is the only institution in the Commonwealth doing, in a proper sense, university work.

The completion of the College home for young women provides facilities for good board and lodging. It is equipped with all modern conveniences, including bath rooms and room for physical culture. It is heated by steam and lighted by electricity.

An opportunity is thus afforded to young women of obtaining a thorough education in classics, modern language, literature, science, mathematics, logic, metaphysics, history, and political economy.

No other institution in the State offers advantages for education of women at all comparable to those offered by the State College of Kentucky.

The Normal Department will be on a better footing than ever heretofore. Last year's largely increased attendance, with the unprecedented growth of the Summer Normal School, both indicate that an era of prosperity surpassing that of all previous years has opened for the Normal Department of the State College.

To South Dakota, The Land of Bread and Butter.

South Dakota is Long on Wealth and Short on People.

To-day it presents the best opportunity in America for those who want to get ahead on the Highway to Independence. More than 47,000,000 bushels of corn, more than 47,000,000 bushels of wheat, live stock to the value of $41,000,000, hay to the value of $12,000,000, and products of the mines above $12,000,000, were some of the returns from South Dakota for 1905. With a population of only 450,000, and the annual production of new wealth above $166,000,000, it can be readily understood why South Dakota people are prosperous and happy. The outlook for 1906 crops is the best South Dakota has ever known.

Why don't you go there and investigate the openings along the new lines of this railway for yourself?

Fram Chicago, and from many other points in Illinois, Minnesota, Iowa and Missouri, direct service to South Dakota is offered via the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway.

Its main lines and branch lines fairly gridiron the rich agricultural and stock country of South Dakota. Its mileage in South Dakota is more than 1,200 miles, and by the building of extensions is being rapidly increased.

A new line is now being built from Chamberlain, S. D., to Rapid City, S. D., through Lyman, Stanley and Pennington counties. Some of the best opportunities for success are along these new lines. The railway company has no farm lands for sale or rent. If you are interested, it is worth while to write to-day for a new book on South Dakota. It will be sent free by return mail.

The Smile

that won't come off, appears on baby's face after one bottle of White's Cream Vermifuge, the great worm medicine. Why not keep that smile on baby's face. If you keep this medicine on hand, you will never see anything else but smiles on his face. Mrs. S. Blackwell, Okla., writes: "My baby was peevish and fretful. Would not eat and I feared he would die. I used a bottle of White's Cream Vermifuge and he has not had a sick day since." Sold by Cook & Higgins.

The additional side track of the L. & N. will be completed this week. The additional trackage is about two miles in length, and most of it is now in use. Only the work of ballasting with cinders a short distance will complete the job, and that is now being done.

SALUTATION TO THE MAYOR

Whole Town Greets Chief Executive in the Same Democratic Fashion.

Every morning a carriage drawn by two spirited horses dashes up to the Buffalo city hall, writes Isaac F. Marcossin in World's Work. A man with white hair and beard and wearing a silk hat and frock coat steps out. A newsboy rushes up to hold the door and says: "Good morning, 'J. N.'"

"Good morning, lad," says the man. Then he steps briskly into the big gray building. It is long before eight o'clock and the scrubwomen are washing the tile floors. As they see him they say:

"Good morning, 'J. N.'"

"Good morning, ladies," is the reply. It is too early for the elevators to be running and he goes up the steps to the second floor and enters a stately room hung with portraits of Grover Cleveland and other mayors of Buffalo. Here a group of people—peddlers, hucksters, merchants—is already waiting and they, too, greet him as "J. N."—familiarly but with respect.

"J. N." is James N. Adam, the new mayor of Buffalo. Nobody there bothers to address him or to refer to him by his full name; it is always "J. N." Yet for 25 years that name has been linked with the highest commercial integrity of the city and to-day it has come to be a symbol for efficient city government.

Formerly the saying in Buffalo was: "Go to 'J. N.' and get your money's worth." Now it is: "Go to 'J. N.' and get a square deal," and the people get it. He has made a fortune in business with clean hands; he has achieved success in politics without being a politician.

He has sacrificed a well-earned leisure and comfort for the duties of an office that he has made the busiest and most fruitful perhaps in its history. Under him the municipal government has become a great business establishment with the citizens as stockholders. There are no "insiders."

FIDDLE STRING SUPPLY.

Tons of Sheep Gut Used Annually in Germany in Their Manufacturing.

An investigation of the sources of supply of the materials entering into the manufacture of musical instruments in Germany has revealed the fact that nearly 70,000 pounds of sheep gut are used annually for strings.

Nearly the whole of this quantity is imported from abroad, chiefly from Russia, which furnishes about 64,000 pounds, the rest coming from England, Australia and India. The hope that some managers of great American abattoirs would care to examine this field for an article that may be more profitably disposed of than at home has led Consular Agent Fiedler, of Markneukirchen, to make inquiries of the local manufacturers. He has been informed by them that English sheep gut, sold by three score and hundredweight, is preferred to all other kinds, and very high prices are paid for it, different grades selling at $5.95, $7.14 and $7.61 per kilogram (2.2046 pounds). The gut of the English sheep is of a fine white color and very durable. In Russia, where the sheep are slaughtered principally on account of their meat, only young animals are killed, whose gut is lighter and softer than that of old sheep.

In South America and Australia the sheep are bred specially on account of their wool. Young sheep are accordingly killed very seldom, and the mature gut is dark. In tropical countries much gut is spoiled because there are too few workmen and the cleaning should be begun as soon as the sheep are killed. Only the stronger gut is salted and exported. In Hamburg and Berlin there are importers of gut who get the salted product from all parts of the world.

Elephant's Little Joke.

A big circus elephant has held up a train at Belfast, Mich. When the train stopped at the station, the elephant, who was in a truck adjoining the engine, filled his trunk with water from the engine tank, and deluged the driver and stoker, driving them from the engine cab, and when they tried to return he repeated his tactics. A man on the platform was enjoying the joke until the animal turned his attention to him and gave him a trunkful, knocking him off the platform, whence he rolled down an embankment and received injuries which terminated fatally. The elephant remained master of the situation until he had drained the tank.

Balloon Trips for the Jaded.

Dr. George Bull, an eminent eye specialist, agrees with Dr. Daulnoy in thinking that many diseases of the eye may be relieved by treatment in balloons at heights of 3,000 to 6,000 feet. In an interview Dr. Bull suggested that the "balloon cure" might be popularized. "I would recommend," he said, "the institution of captive balloons outside all theaters and art galleries. Nothing could be better for the head ache brought on by the atmosphere of a theater or for the strain on the eyesight by much picture-gazing than an ascent of, say, 3,000 feet."

At the annual prize distribution of the Holland (Lincolnshire) county council shorthand classes, at Spalding, the first prize in the advanced section was awarded to a domestic servant.

HOME ENDORSEMENT

Hundreds of Hopkinsville Citizens Can Tell You All About It.

Home endorsement, the public expression of Hopkinsville people, should be evidence beyond dispute for every Hopkinsville reader. Surely the expression of friends and neighbors, cheerfully given by them, will carry more weight than the utterances of strangers residing in far-away places. Read the following:

J. B. Cravens, blacksmith, of 320 West 19th street, Hopkinsville, Ky., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills practically gave me a new back. For three or four years a kidney trouble had caused me the most constant and severe aches and pains through my back and compelled me to constantly complain in more than one way. When arising in the morning I felt sore and lame and had to make a great effort to dress myself. The trouble grew worse and a weakness of the kidneys set in which caused me a great deal of annoyance. Willing to try almost anything I purchased Doan's Kidney Pills as soon as I saw them advertised locally and got a box at L. A. Johnson & Co.'s drugstore. They brought me a great deal of benefit. My back is well and strong now and the trouble with the kidney secretions is much relieved. I have a great deal of faith in Doan's Kidney Pills.

Modest Claims Often Carry the Most Convictions.

When Maxim, the famous gun inventor, placed his gun before a committee of judges, he stated its carrying power to be much below what he felt sure the gun would accomplish. The result of the trial therefore was a great surprise, instead of disappointment. It is the same with the manufacturers of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. They do not publicly boast of all this remedy will accomplish, but prefer to let the users make the statements. What they do claim, is that it will positively cure diarrhoea, dysentery, pains in the stomach and bowels and has never been known to fail. For sale by L. L. There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease

by constantly failing to cure with lo-

HENRY B. HINES.

State Inspector Henry B. Hines is one of the three announced candidates for Auditor, and in this part of the State nearly everybody is for him. The KENTUCKIAN has had more or less to say about Henry in the past, sometimes joking him, sometimes roasting him and sometimes patting him on the back. Even in the days when we used to make his life miserable, he was such a good fellow that we never ceased to like him, and we do not purpose to let this chance go by without saying a few kind words for him, if for no other reason because he is from our "neck of the woods."

Judge Hines—for he used to be city judge of Bowling Green—is one of the State's most prominent politicians. His enemies say he is one of the hubs in the four wheels of the State machine.

He is a typical Kentuckian, handsome and of all-round accomplishments. A good mixer, an experienced organizer, and a far-seeing politician. His courtesy is proverbial and his polite treatment of all a part of his nature.

Since 1900 Judge Hines has been the State Inspector, having been appointed by Governor Beckham. While serving in the capacity of State Inspector, he has had occasion to visit all sections of the State, and therefore has a very wide acquaintance.

If nominated and elected as State Auditor, Judge Hines promises at the expiration of his term not to again offer for an elective State office, as he believes in stepping aside and giving others a chance.

The Franklin Favorite well says
of him:

"Henry Hines has helped to wage every fight made for Democracy in the Third district for the past twenty years, and the entire State cannot produce a more loyal, active and deserving Democrat. He is admirably adapted for Auditor, and would reflect great credit upon his supporters and perform the duties entailed on him by the high position with painstaking accuracy and efficient fidelity. His work as State Inspector justifies fully all the claims that his friends may make for him."

The members of the Kentucky Press Association voted to appoint a committee to draft resolutions pledging them to support candidates for office who are known to be favorable to the interests of the newspapers.
President Gullion in his annual report mentioned the failure of the Label Bill to become a law at the last session of the Legislature, which he characterized as being "unfortunate."

DIED ON THE WAY

Mrs. Esther Mercer Died
Monday at the Home of
J. W. Rigsby.

BODY SENT TO DECATUR.

Was Going to Indianapolis
From Decatur, Ala.,
by Wagon.

Isaiah Mercer, of Decatur, Ala., accompanied by his wife and three small children, started from their home in Decatur, Ala., two weeks ago for Indianapolis. Mrs. Mercer had been a victim of consumption for several months and her health was fast giving way, so it was deemed wise to make the long trip in a wagon as it was thought the change of climate and sleeping out in the open air might prolong the invalid's life.

They passed through this city
Monday on their way to Evansville by Henderson. After reaching Mr.
Rigsby's place, about three miles out on the Madisonville road, the travelers stopped for a night's rest. They were well fixed for the trip and Mrs. Mercer was needing a cessation of rough wagon travel, as her weakened condition indicated. She was taken from the wagon and placed on a cot and carried into Mr.
Rigsby's yard to rest in the shade of the trees. This was about 4:30.
After resting awhile the poor woman thought she would enjoy a small piece of watermelon. She ate very little of it but was a corpse three minutes after.

It was a sad night for the bereaved husband and his two little children, though every kindness possible was shown them. After considering during the night what might be the best course to pursue in his extremity, Mr. Mercer decided that his wisest course would be to send his wife's remains to Decatur for burial and resume his cheerless journey with his children to Indianapolis.
So an undertaker was called who embalmed the body and made all preparations to ship it by express on the 5:18 train Tuesday.

Mrs. Mercer carried a small policy with the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., of which E. A. Roper is the local agent. He was notified by Mr.
Mercer and furnished the company with the evidence given in the coroner's inquest. The deceased was 34 years of age, and was patiently waiting for the end, though grieved at the thought of having to part from her little ones and her devoted husband.

Mr. Mercer will remain here until his wife's insurance is settled.

The game of baseball between the Elks and Odd Fellows is to be played next Friday. The price of admission is only 25 cents and the proceeds will be used in a charitable way. Of course you will be willing to give that for the cause. Green Champlin is to do the catching for the Odds. He is practicing and says he knows he can stop the balls by turning round if not in the regular way. Claude Clark is to pitch for the Elks. He, too, has been practicing and has a muscle on his right arm almost as large as a "drat." He is going to give the Odds some dratted swift balls—just watch his "curves." The game will be played at Mercer Park and called at 4 o'clock. Green Champlin will start some time after 12 o'clock in order to get there on time, and Mr. Clark will cut short his lecture on the art of fishing with a reel so as not to keep the crowd waiting more than half an hour. Somebody has accused Hiram Thomas and John Stites of fixing up a plan to swindle both sides.
But what's the difference? You will be looking for fun and that's what you'll find if you will spend that rusty old quarter and be there.
It has been thought best not to use those double cushion seats with reinforced backs for fear that somebody might break them by laughing too hard. Do as "Uncle Dick" will—carry a seat with you. "Don't forget the day date and hour," but be sure you get there on time and see how Green Champlin will look as "the man behind the plate" or Claude Antler Clark as "the high-low-out-in curver of the sphere." He's a great fisherman, too, and will be after suckers that day. Mayor Meacham is expected home from Crab Orchard Springs that day to "empire" the game. It is appropriate that he'll be so crabbed from drinking crab cider that he will find it hard to keep from ordering "empire" kickers to the lock-up. One of the rules of the game will be that every base runner will have to move fast enough to keep the grass from growing under his feet, and every man who strikes at a floating thistle down instead of a ball will "be fined one dollar for each offense."

of Hopkinsville is, after all, the best place to get anything in the Jewelry line. There's a record behind us, a record of over thirty years; a clean record of satisfied customers, a record of honest dealing, for honest quality, honest prices. It's a record any Jeweler might feel proud of. And when we sell an article we have in mind that we have a record to maintain, and no slipshod methods, no careless workmanship, no lack of quality, is ever allowed to mar the record of the past. But to improve, if possible, this record, is ever our aim, and goods are sold for as

New York Life.

Hopkinsville, Ky., April 30th, 1906.

Mr. Walter F. Garnett, Agent,
New York Life Insurance Co.,

Dear Sir:—
It gives me pleasure to acknowledge receipt of statement of optional settlement on 20-Payment Life Policy, No. 223,593, for $1,500.00, issued at age 35, with premium of $52.50, taken out with you Apr. 29, '86. After having been insured for 20 years, I am offered a paid up policy for $1,500 and a cash dividend of $406.83, or the total value may be withdrawn in cash—$1,215.85, (which is more than I have paid in in the 20 years) or a fully paid up policy payable at my death for $2,219.00.

The cash settlement of $1,215.85 is equal to Term Insurance at $12.87 per $1,000 and an investment of the balance of premiums with 5 per cent. compound interest for twenty years. This showing is certainly a creditable one for the New York Life, and I will be pleased to give you my application for $1,000 on the Ordinary Life plan.

Yours very truly, C. E. WEST.

After an illness of two months, four weeks of which he was confined to his home, Mr. M. A. Crawford died Tuesday morning at 4:40, of dropsy.

Great Reduction In Prices of Wall Paper

Nobody is absolutely infallible. We all make some mistakes. One of our mistakes of last season was buying too much wall paper.

We will for the next ten days, beginning Monday, July 16, sell everything in the WALL PAPER line at greatly reduced prices.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 3,

Is the Time Fixed For the County S. S. Convention at Church Hill.

A Large Crowd Will Be There and Basket Dinner Furnished.

Rev. A. D. Litchfield, of Pembroke, was in the city Tuesday. Mr. Litchfield is the President of the Christian County S. S. Union, which, as is well known, is inter-denominational. All the ministers and the churches here are interested in the doings of the Union. The annual convention of the organization is to be held at Church Hill this year. The time at first fixed for holding the convention was changed on account of it being harvest time, and it would have been impossible for many deeply interested in Sunday-school work to leave their farms and attend the sessions of the convention.

Now that the harvest is over, Sunday, August 3, is the day set for the convention. There will be two sessions—the meeting being called to order at 9 a. m. The time for the afternoon session will be fixed at the morning session. A splendid program, on which are the names of State Worker Gebauer and several pastors of the city and county, as well as a number of laymen, has been arranged. Everybody is invited. A fine basket dinner will be served on the grounds.

Opening Night of the Bank of Hopkinsville.

Tuesday night from 8 to 11 o'clock the officials of the new Bank of Hopkinsville "received." President Gant, Cashier McPherson, Ass't Cashier McPherson, Mr. Braden, Archie Gant, all others having any connection with the bank and assisted by others, played the agreeable to the throng of visitors who wanted to see what the "marble palace," as it has been called, looked like.

It really seemed that half of Hopkinsville was on the inside during reception hours and the other half was on the outside peeping through the windows. Lebkeucher's string band was there, cut flowers were placed about the building, while the whole banking part of the establishment was a blaze of electric lights. The officials were congratulated by everybody on the beauty and adaptability of their new quarters. All officials looked as happy as a young girl at her "setting out party" while the visitors enjoyed the occasion to the fullest. Unless swept away by fire the home of the Bank of Hopkinsville will be up-to-date for a hundred years hence, for there is no room for improvement. President Gant said yesterday that they did not build just for today, but for the future.

FIRST NATIONAL

This Bank is Far-Reaching and Buys Panama Canal Bonds.

It Will Also Be Made One of the Government Depositories.

The officials of the First National Bank are always on the alert, and looking out for good investments of late, sent Mr. Thomas W. Long to Washington City to negotiate for part of the $30,000,000 Panama Canal bonds, which Secretary Shaw was directed to put on the market, the bids for which were opened July 20. The bidding for the bonds was quite lively. The highest bid for a large amount was 104½ for $100,000 of the bonds. Fisk & Robinson, of New York City, offered to take the whole $30,000,000 at an average of 103.85. They will get about $15,000,000, but no bonds will be transferred by the Government to any of the bidders at less than 103.85.

In looking over the list of bidders who will be awarded bonds we notice the First National Bank of Hopkinsville gets a block of $50,000 at 104. So far as yet known this is the only bank in Kentucky that gets any of the bonds. Mr. Thomas W. Long, the cashier, was in Washington last week looking into the matter, and we congratulate him on his success. It inspires a feeling of pride amongst our people to read of things of this kind, and shows that there is no mossbackism prevailing here, at least in our financial institutions. There is another thing connected with this transaction that is also a matter of congratulation: Secretary Shaw is going to designate as Government depositories all national banks whose bids were as high as 103 or better. The First National is one of them. That's good! It shows what men who are always on the qui vive can do for themselves as well as the public—even to helping to dig a canal in far off Panama. We make our salam to the First National and wish it the greatest year's business in its history. When the Government puts $30,000,000 in bonds on the market and $150,000,000 are bid for, and our neighbors on the corner get a bite of $50,000 they have a right to crow, and we like to pat them on the back and tell them to expand their lungs—and we feel like helping them, too.

SUIT TO SETTLE ESTATE

Christian County is Among the List Involved.

A suit was filed in the Daviess Circuit Court which will necessitate legal process in five States and ten counties in Kentucky. The suit is for the settlement of the estate of George Givens. The States involved are Kentucky, Virginia, Missouri, Texas and Mississippi. The counties in Kentucky are Christian, Daviess, Muhlenberg, Laurel, Lin. Shelby, Boyle, Garrard, Kenton and Bell.

By MARVIN DANA

(Copyright, by Joseph B. Bowles.)

Sitting over their coffee in the evening, the various members of the coaching party were detailing impressions from the day's trip.

By common consent the others paused when Madame la Baronne de Vaux began to speak. The dainty Frenchwoman was a favorite with all, and she was usually sure of listeners to whatever she chose to say.

"Ah, that little village," she cried, gaily. "That little village all of wood, with its wooden church! But in France it had been all of brick and stone. Yet it was like—oh, so very like!—a tiny place quite near our chateau. And it was there that something happened once, something droll, and sweet."

Madame la Baronne paused and smiled, and the sweetness in her face deepened, and the drollness flashed in her black eyes.

"Tell us, please tell us, madam," the others clamored.

"Surely," the baroness replied. "There was a dear old boy lived in the village, and, too, a dear old lady. He was an old bachelor, and she was an old maid. Once, years and years and years ago, she and he had been sweethearts. Somehow they could not, or would not, marry. He went away for years, while she remained in the village always. Then at last he came back, and they were good friends. They were too old to marry, or so they thought. But every evening he called on her, and they sat and chatted on the veranda when the season was right, and at other times they sat in two great chairs before the little fire in the little parlor of her cottage."

"One winter's night, when the air was most biting and their old blood chilled by the frost of it, they sat cozily in the parlor, as always, and the old gentleman, I suppose, was very busy to heap the tiny fire high and to keep the blaze brisk, so that they sat snugly in their huge chairs and basked in the warm glow, and chatted lazily and drowsily of the past days, when love was hot in their young hearts."

Madame la Baronne broke off and ran her merry eyes over the group about her.

"Have none of you read the tale?" she questioned. "No? Well, there is little more. Indeed, I have only to finish now. In the morning, when the baroness entered the parlor to dust it and put things straight, she found the dear old gentleman and the dear old lady in their great chairs before the dying fire in the tiny grate, and they were—sound asleep!"

The baroness smiled, and laughter ran in the circle around her.

"They were married as quickly as the law would allow. Otherwise there must have been a whisper of scandal. And, oh, I am sure that they lived happy ever after; yes, even as happy as before!"

The group chattered merrily over the narrative and thanked the raconteuse with enthusiasm.

"And now let us have some music," the baroness suggested, and turned to a patriotic American. "Of course, that means you, Mr. Blennen."

Blennen's dark, thin face lighted with a pleasant smile, as he nodded an assent to the general demand, but before he rose from his chair his eyes wandered toward a woman at a little distance from him and there they rested, with a suggestion of expectation in their gaze. Almost instantly the woman turned to meet his look, and she spoke eagerly:

"Oh, please, Mr. Blennen."

At the words a glow of pleasure shone from the musician's face, and he hastened toward the piano.

The early summer night of the Hudson valley was soft, languorous, silent, save for the restful droning of the insects. Through the open windows of the great drawing-room came the luxurious mingle, perfumes of many blossoms. It was a night and a company for music. For Blennen, though the inheritor of a princely fortune, was a master of music.

When he had finished, and the crowd of enthusiasts at last allowed him to break from their compliments, he went to her.

She made place beside her, and flashed a glance of fond pride upon him.

"It was wonderful, wonderful," she cried, softly. "You, genius, Vance, is so true—so splendidly true! Ah, when I listened to you, my soul went floating in a magic land of harmony, I—"

She broke off abruptly. Then, with hardly a second's pause, she continued, gaily:

"I should never mind my insomnia, if I could lie and hear you playing."

"Poor child! you don't show any sign of it. You are as fresh and dainty, as lovely and superb as ever—more beautiful in my eyes, Grace."

The woman blushed and dropped her gaze in confusion at the passion in his voice. Her silence emboldened him, and he continued in an eager whisper:

"Tell me, Grace, is not my happiness coming to me soon—soon?"

But the woman raised her hand appealingly, whilst she avoided the long eyes:

"Don't, Vance. No, no, not yet. I am afraid."

but that the happy issue of this love was of the utmost uncertainty. For fate made him the scapegoat of another man's sins.

Mr. Morse had been a suave villain, of exceptional personal charm when he so willed, a hypocrite, a debauchee, a brute. He had treated his wife with exquisite courtesy in the presence of others; but, alone with her, he had outraged her every instinct, had beaten and bruised her flesh and scourged her soul. His death had come as a blessed release from the tortures her pride had forced her to endure, but it had left her with a morbid dread of marriage, a conviction that all men were cowardly and cruel, that as her husband had been, so any other might be.

To-night, as Blennen reviewed the words she had spoken to him, he felt a swift indignation that she must still suffer physically, as her insomnia testified she did.

"No wonder she broods, if she can't sleep nights," he muttered angrily.

"What chance can I have?"

After a long silence, he spoke again, and now very tenderly:

"If I could only play to her, for her rest the night through!"

He went to the window and stood looking out at the glory of the river and the night. The spirit of the scene crept to his ear and whispered her name, and the memory of her and the desire of her filled his soul.

One day the whole party sailed up the river, and made a mountaineering expedition into the Catskills. They did not return until nightfall; and they were hungry and weary. After dinner the company was listless and drowsy; very early, one after another, they began to stagger off to bed.

Blennen came to Mrs. Morse.

"I'm not the least bit sleepy," he said to her, so low that no one could overhear. "And I'm not tired. Of course, you're not sleepy yet; and, even if you were, I suppose you wouldn't dare to risk a night's sleeplessness by going to bed so early. So come into the library with me, and I'll play you Chopin for a while. Will you? Do!"

"It will rest me and soothe me," she said. "I am so glad you thought of it!"

The great drawing-room was almost deserted as the two passed out into the hall, and on to the library, which stood somewhat apart in a wing. This room was sacred to the master of the house; guests rarely intruded unless by particular invitation. When he had established her comfortably, Blennen turned away without a word and seated himself at the piano.

SHE WAS FAST ASLEEP.

A few dying notes, then silence. The shaded light of the electric bulb still shone softly, but the moonlight had long danced from the waves. In its stead, the mist over the river was purpling warm with the summer dawn.

Blennen moved softly to the window and stood looking down on the woman. She gave no heed to his presence. The dark lashes swept her cheek, her breath rhythmed gently, she was nestled luxuriously amid the cushions—she was fast asleep!

Suddenly, she opened her eyes and stared into his face with the bewilderment of a drowsy child.

"Why, good heavens, there must be a fire," she exclaimed. "See how light it is!"

Blennen looked obediently.

"So it is," he agreed.

"It isn't light," she cried, "not daylight! It can't be!"

"I rather suspect it is, though," Blennen said, quietly.

"And do you mean to say that I've been right here in this chair since eleven o'clock last night? Sound asleep for hours?" she asked, with amazement that was almost awe.

"I'm afraid you have been," Blennen affirmed, apologetically.

But the widow was far from indignation at this moment.

"Bless me," she exclaimed, rapturously, "it's a miracle! I—asleep for hours! I can't believe it. You are a magician, Vance."

Blennen seized his opportunity, boldly:

"Marry me, and I'll play you to sleep any night you wish."

Instantly, the woman of the world awoke to her knowledge of conventions. Her eyes dilated a little, and for a minute there was silence. Then she turned to him with a face that was glowing:

"Yes, I will marry you now. Somehow, the fear has passed!"

"Aye, her nerves are the better for just these few hours of real sleep," Blennen thought; but he had the wisdom not to speak aloud.

"But such a scandal!" the widow whispered as she drew her lips from Blennen's.

"Pooh! no one can know! And if they do—"

"And if they do—they will laugh!"

"Yes, they will laugh, as they did at madame's story."

Learn the Truth.

How Nature Provides.

OUR BEAUTY, HEALTH AND HAPPINESS.

Is it not possible if not probable that elements necessary for the body-health are contained in the native medicinal roots found in the earth, digested in the plant laboratory of nature and made ready for man or animal?

The medicinal virtues of many American plants and roots were known to the early Indians. Thus a root known to modern physicians as Caulophyllum or Blue Cohosh was known to the Indians as "Squaw root." Another, known to the Indians as "Rattleweed root," is used in modern medicine as "Cimicifuga."

Prof. King's American Dispensary, an authority in these matters, says: "Our Indians set a high value on Rattleweed root (Black Cohosh) in diseases of women. It is surpassed by no other drug in corrective conditions of the parts where there are dragging pains and tenderness."

After many years of study and experiment Dr. Pierce, the medical director of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, at Buffalo, N. Y., put up a prescription of his own, containing the non-alcoholic, glyceric extracts of the two above mentioned ingredients, together with Golden Seal root, Lady's Slipper root and Unicorn root. Thus, there is no mystery in the make-up of this famous "Prescription." The use of alcohol is entirely avoided in its manufacture, chemically pure glycerine being found to serve the purpose of extracting and preserving the medicinal properties even better than alcohol.

The one medicine for the cure of woman's peculiar weaknesses and ailments, the ingredients of which are printed on the wrapper of every bottle leaving the great Laboratory in Buffalo, N. Y., where it is made, is called Dr. Pierce's FAVORITE PRESCRIPTION.

It Stands Alone not only in respect to its ingredients, but also as the only specific advertised remedy for woman's diseases which absolutely CONTAINS NO ALCOHOL.

It Stands Alone as the one medicine which their patients fully into their confidence and tell them exactly what they are taking. This Dr. Pierce can afford to do, because his "FAVORITE PRESCRIPTION" is made of such ingredients and after a working formula that has thousands of cures to its credit placing its merits above criticism.

It Stands Alone as Nature's cure for the diseases peculiar to women because the earth supplies the vegetable ingredients.

Mrs. Mary J. Beard (Trained Nurse, Washington Hospital), of 1503 9th Street, N. W., Washington, D. C., writes:

"I felt badly for four years, had terrible pains at times and was often unable to be about attending to my duties. Appetite was poor and sleep fitful. Tried to cure myself in various ways without success, but finally my attention was called to Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription and decided to try it. Am certainly glad that I did for began to improve with the first bottle, and gradually became better until I was entirely cured of the old trouble. Am well and can enjoy life once more."

Dr. Pierce's Good temper is largely a matter of healthy activity of the bowels. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. They are safe, sure and speedy, and once taken do not have to be taken always. One little "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, and two a mild cathartic. They never gripe. By all druggists.

Southwest

The Land of BIG CROPS and PROSPERITY.

Are you making as much off your farm as you ought? No doubt you are making all you CAN. The trouble is the land costs too much. It takes too much money to buy a big farm, and so you are trying to make a living on a small farm, or perhaps you are renting one and paying a good share of what you raise, in rent. Wouldn't it be better to go where the price of good land is so little that you can own a big farm—where every acre of the ground is working for you and all you raise is paying you good profits?

There are thousands of acres of fertile land in the Southwest along the line of the Cotton Belt Route that can be bought for from $3 to $10 an acre. This land is increasing in value each year.

See the Southwest at Small Cost.

A trip to the Southwest would convince you that your best interests lay in settling there. The trip can be made at very little expense. On the first and third Tuesdays of each month you can purchase a round trip ticket to any point in the Southwest on or via the Cotton Belt Route at very low rates. Stop-overs will be allowed for you to examine any locality you are interested in. Write at once for free copies of books describing this wonderful country and for full information about cost of tickets, etc.

Situations Guaranteed.

THE WORLD'S LEADING COMMERCIAL SCHOOL

FOUNDED IN 1882

We do not guarantee situations to prospective students in order to get their patronage. Schools of merit do not resort to such dishonest practices. Fake schools "guarantee" situations in order to secure students, because they have no other inducements to offer. Our work is so thorough that a guarantee is superfluous. Business men are so eager to get competent help here that a large percentage of our students take positions before they graduate. See us before making arrangements for your business and shorthand education at some inferior fake school. We will take pleasure in telling you all about the loop holes in the "position guarantee" of dishonest schools. Catalogue free.

HONOR JOHN BROWN

CELEBRATION TO BE HELD AT OSAWATOMIE, KANS.

Fiftieth Anniversary of the Battle at That Place to Be Observed by Appropriate Exercises.

The proposed celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the battle fought at Osawatomie, Kan., August 30, 1856, recalls an interesting and thrilling bit of history of which John Brown was the central figure. Osawatomie became the home of the darling abolitionist and his family in 1855, they being attracted thither by the determination to aid the free state party in the efforts to keep the territory from becoming a pro-slavery state.

John Brown had years before espoused the antislavery cause, an incident in his boyhood having influenced him strongly in that direction. In the same house where he was stopping as a boy there was a slave boy almost his own age, and seeing this boy ill-treated—even beaten, as he declares, with an iron fire shovel—he became, in his own words, "a most determined abolitionist," and was led "to declare, or swear, eternal war with slavery." And so when he moved to Osawatomie

THE JOHN BROWN MONUMENT.
(Erected on Osawatomie Battle Ground Twenty-eight Years Ago.)

it was not long before he and his sons were enrolled in the Kansas militia by the free state party, and the conflict at Osawatomie was one of the sensational episodes of those days of violence and bloodshed.

Perhaps the most stirring event of all of John Brown's career was the summary punishment meted out to five men of the pro-slavery party in avowed retribution for the assassination of five of the free state men, and known as the "Pottawatomie massacre." It was intended to echo far beyond Kansas, as it did, and to announce to the slave-holding community that blood for blood would henceforth be exacted in case of any further invasion of rights. It undoubtedly had that effect, and though some even in Kansas regarded it with disapproval, it is certain that leading citizens of the territory, such as Gov. Robinson, themselves justified it at the time. Robinson wrote, as late as February, 1878: "I never had much doubt that Capt. Brown was the author of the blow at Pottawatomie, for the reason that he was the only man who comprehended the situation, and saw the absolute necessity of some such blow, and had nerve to strike it."

That Kansas reveres the memory of John Brown was attested 28 years ago, when the monument erected at Osawatomie to his honor was dedicated. John J. Ingalls making the speech of the occasion. This monument is of plain white marble and not more than 12 feet high. It cost about $400, the money being contributed by the early settlers of Osawatomie and vicinity. There are inscriptions on the four sides, but this one tells the story:

In commemoration of the heroism of CAPTAIN JOHN BROWN, Who commanded at the battle of Osawatomie, August 30, 1856. Who died and conquered on the scaffold at Charleston, Virginia, December 2, 1859.

The plans for the celebration at Osawatomie next August include Vice President Charles W. Fairbanks as the principal speaker of the occasion, and Gov. Hoch of Kansas and Gov. Folk of Missouri, representing the two states whose citizens participated in the fight at Osawatomie, will also deliver addresses.

A most interesting feature of the occasion will be the presence of an old pioneer of the state, who remembers the battle of Osawatomie, and who will read a letter written by John Brown to his sisters from the jail in Charlestown on the Sunday before he was executed. This letter is the property of the Kansas Historical society and bears date of November 27, 1859, and is as follows:

"Oh, my friends, can you deem it possible that that scaffold has no terrors for your poor, old, unworthy brother? I thank God through Jesus Christ, my Lord, it is even so. I am now shedding tears, but they are not tears of grief and sorrow; I trust I am nearly done with those. I am weeping with joy and gratitude I can in no other way express. I am waiting cheerfully the days of my appointed time, fully believing that for me now to die will be to me of infinite gain and of untold benefit to the cause we love."

The only survivor of the John Brown raids is W. J. Clark, now a resident of Chicago.

FOUND DEAD IN HIS BED.

City Tax Collector Gus Tandy
Passed Into the Other World Tuesday.

WAS IN FEEBLE HEALTH.

Was Serving His Third Term
as Collector of City Taxes.

On the streets Monday at 6 p. m. and a corpse before 6 the next morning, was the fate of big-hearted, generous and popular Gus Tandy.

For two years Mr. Tandy had been gradually losing strength from diabetes and his family and friends well knew that he could not live much longer, but none ever thought the end was so near, or that death would come so suddenly.

During Monday he was at his office in the City Hall, and told his friends that he was feeling considerably better. He left his office to walk to his home on East Eighteenth street for supper, but before going many squares was overtaken by a friend in a buggy, who took him up and drove him home. He retired to his room at his usual hour without any pain scarcely, and laid down to sleep.

About 6 o'clock Tuesday morning Mrs. Tandy went to his room to see if he intended rising at his usual hour, but he seemed to be resting so quietly that she gently closed the door and went back to her own room. Waiting about an hour she again went to her husband's room to arouse him. On opening the door she noticed that he was still apparently asleep and started to call him, but there was a calmness and serenity on his face that sent a thrill of fear instantly to her heart, when only a call and then a touch revealed the fact that her fond husband had passed into the great unknown.

The wife's sorrow can only be imagined, words cannot tell its intensity. The sympathy of a large circle of friends goes out to the bereaved widow and fatherless children.

Gus Tandy was 38 years of age. He was born two miles from Pembroke and received a fair education before beginning to earn his own living. His father, mother and sister, Miss Sallie, are now living on the farm where Gus was born. About twelve years ago he came to this city and took a position in the clothing and furnishing goods department of J. H. Anderson & Co., which position he held up to the time he was made City Tax Collector four and a half years ago.

While in the store he formed the acquaintance of Miss Jessie Vaughan. A mutual attachment followed their acquaintance and they were, in a few months after, married. Two children blessed their union.

Mr. Tandy was a charter member of the Hopkinsville lodge of Elks and was also a member of the Pembroke lodge Knights of Pythias.

Funeral services were held at his late residence yesterday morning and the remains were carried to Pembroke for interment. The Elks had charge of the services at the grave.

OPERATION PERFORMED

Mr. Carter's Foot Still In Precarious Condition.

An operation was performed one day last week and several of the small bones of the member removed from the foot of Mr. A. L. Carter, of the Pembroke neighborhood, and the hope is now held out that the trouble that has caused Mr. Carter so much suffering, will take a turn for the better and he will entirely recover, though it is realized that his condition is still very serious.

The foot became very badly irritated from a bruise over a year ago and Mr. Carter has suffered greatly from it ever since it happened. Mr. Carter is one of the most prominent farmers of the county and it is regretted very much that such a serious accident has befallen him.
